Question 8: Residency

To meet this test, the child must have lived with you for more than half of the year; however, there are exceptions for temporary absences. Your child is considered to have lived with you during periods of time when one or both of you are temporarily absent due to special circumstances such as: Illness, Education, Business, Vacation, or Military Service.

Question 10: Children of Divorced or Separated Parents

Because of the residency requirement, a child of divorced or separated parents is typically the qualifying dependent child of the custodial parent. However, the child may be treated as the qualifying dependent child of the noncustodial parent if all four of the following conditions are met.

- The parents are divorced or legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance; are separated under a written separation agreement; or the parents lived apart at all times during the last 6 months of the year.
- The parents provided over half the total support for the child for the year.
- The child was in the custody of one or both parents for more than half the year.
- The custodial parent follows the IRS “written declaration” rules releasing the dependency exemption to the noncustodial parent and the noncustodial parent attaches all required documentation to his/her tax return for the year of the tuition benefit period.

ELIGIBILITY FOR DOMESTIC PARTNER TUITION PROGRAM (DPTP)

1. Domestic Partner Tuition Program (DPTP) eligibility is extended to domestic partners of UA administrative, professional, faculty and classified staff employees who are employed at 50% or more of full time equivalance (FTE) and whose employment is expected to continue six (6) months or more; and dependent children of eligible domestic partners. Eligible employees must be employed on the first day of an academic semester or session in order to extend the DPTP for that semester or session to their partner and his/her dependent children. Eligible employees who terminate their employment or transfer to a non-eligible position prior to the first day of classes are no longer eligible to extend the DPTP program to their domestic partner and/or the partner's dependents, and will be responsible for payment of full tuition costs and fees.

Also eligible for the DPTP program are the domestic partner/dependent children of a retired employee who has earned Official University Retirement Benefits from the University of Arizona.

DPTP eligibility does not extend to university affiliates, employees who have been laid off, are on long-term disability, or the surviving domestic partner/dependents of a deceased employee.

2. Definitions:

The term “domestic partner” for the purpose of program eligibility means two people who sign a statement affirming that they:

- both currently share a primary residence, are in a relationship of mutual support, and declare that they intend to remain in such for the indefinite future.

Beginning January 12, 2012, in order to participate in the Domestic Partner Tuition Program, you will be required to provide a one-time proof of eligibility in the form of a signed certificate issued by an entity such as the Tucson Domestic Partner Registry.

The term “children” for the purposes of this form means the natural, adopted, or step-children of the domestic partner. The term “dependent children” for the purposes of this form means children who are eligible to be claimed as a dependent of the domestic partner for federal tax purposes and who have not reached age thirty (30) as of the first day of the semester for which the tuition reduction is granted.
