

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

James E. Rogers
College of Law

MASTER OF LEGAL STUDIES

A top-tier law school, the University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law—Arizona Law—has been shaping legal education for more than a century. With renown faculty in a variety of specializations, Arizona Law nurtures academic and personal growth, respects diversity of ideas, and stimulates independent thought and critical reasoning. We help our students, like you, find their individual paths in the law and expand their career options.

Our Master of Legal Studies (MLS) is a one-year degree program for non-lawyers.

EXPAND YOUR PROFESSIONAL SKILLS

Whether you are an undergraduate seeking an edge through graduate studies or a working professional looking to advance your career, the Master of Legal Studies may be right for you. In today's complex regulatory environment, law impacts professions ranging from health care, human resources, and real estate to business management, government, and compliance. This one-year master's program is designed for leaders and passionate professionals who want knowledge of the law without becoming practicing attorneys.

In our MLS program you can:

- Define or re-direct your career
- Acquire both general and specialized knowledge of the law in your career field
- Develop your ability to think critically about legal issues and possible solutions
- Hone your communication, negotiating, and reasoning skills
- Conduct legal and interdisciplinary research relevant to your area of interest

ACCELERATED MASTER'S PROGRAM—BA/MLS

Qualified BA in Law students with a minimum 3.3 GPA have the opportunity to pursue an accelerated track to a Master of Legal Studies (MLS) from Arizona Law. After taking 12 units of foundational law courses at the graduate level during their senior year, students accepted into the accelerated program take an additional 18 units in Legal Analysis, Research and Writing, and upper-level electives with JD students. For more information, visit law.arizona.edu/ba-law-accelerated-mls.

CUSTOMIZED DEGREE PROGRAM

You can pursue a general Master of Legal Studies and sample different areas of the law, concentrate in a specific area through a specialized program of study, or pursue a self-designed program in your area of interest.

MLS SPECIALIZATIONS INCLUDE

- Criminal Law & Policy
- Mining Law & Policy
- Int'l Economic Law
- Environmental Law & Policy
- Human Rights
- Family & Juvenile Law
- Intellectual Property
- Compliance & Legal Risk Management
- Indigenous Peoples Law & Policy

SELF-DESIGNED CONCENTRATIONS MIGHT EMPHASIZE

- Business Law
- Intellectual Property
- Immigration
- Constitutional Law
- Civil Litigation
- Int'l & Comparative Law
- Commercial Law
- Real Estate Law
- International Trade
- Administrative Law
- Regulatory Law
- Health Law & Policy
- Dispute Resolution
- Sports & Entertainment Law

FLEXIBLE ENROLLMENT OPTIONS

You may pursue our MLS on a full-time or part-time basis, and you can begin your studies in January or August. Some online courses will be available beginning Fall 2017.

MLS TUITION: Tuition for the 2016–17 full-time MLS program is $26,000, prorated at $867 per unit (excluding mandatory University fees)—making it one of the best-value MLS programs in the U.S.

APPLY NOW to start classes in January or August.

EXPLORE: www.law.arizona.edu/MLS | EMAIL: MLS@law.arizona.edu | CALL: +1 (520) 626-8575