

Promotion – Recruitment vs. Incumbent Review

You can promote an employee through the incumbent review process if the following conditions are met. You are promoting the employee:

- To the next pay grade
- To the next career level
- Once in a rolling calendar year
- To a position within their current assigned unit
- To a position within their current job function
- After completing six months within their current position
- Who was hired on a competitive basis

